Curriculum vitae

Gerritje Jannetje Willemina (Rianne) van der Windt was born on January 29th 1981 in Gouda. In 1999 she graduated from the Goudse Waarden in Gouda, and started Medical Biology at the University of Amsterdam. In 2003 she performed her first internship at the Dutch Brain Institute in Amsterdam on 'the function of estrogen receptors during multiple sclerosis', under supervision of dr. I. Huitinga. Her second internship was at the Center for Experimental and Molecular Medicine (CEMM) at the Academic Medical Center (AMC) in Amsterdam in 2004, on 'Interaction between Streptococcus pneumoniae and CD14' under guidance of dr. A.F. de Vos and prof. dr. T. van der Poll. In 2005 she graduated with distinction and started her PhD project at CEMM, AMC, again under supervision of prof. dr. T. van der Poll and dr. A.F. de Vos. From September 2010 she will continue research as a post-doc at the Trudeau Institute in Saranac Lake (NY, USA) in the group of dr. E.L. Pearce.
