ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A project of the size of a thesis is larger then one person can handle alone. Help, advice, and discussion are crucial for successful completion. My supervisors Martin Hoogendoorn and Henk Langendijk have guided me through this undertaking by asking tough questions and helping me structure my thinking.
The luxury of two supervisors provided alternative views and improved my understanding of the subject matter. In addition to being good supervisors I enjoyed our meetings and the good times we had during the process.

Sid Gray has been an important guide and helpful discussion partner. In addition, I am grateful to him and University of New South Wales for inviting me to Sydney.

In the final stages helpful comments were received from the committee members Willem Buijink, Philip Wallage and Sid Gray.

Helpful discussion and comments along the way were also provided by Jeff Abarbanell, Patricia O'Brien, Peter Easton, Ruud Koster, Martien Lubberink, Peter Pope and the faculty of the Doctoral Colloquium of the 1998 EAA conference, Baljit Sidhu and my fellow PhD students Jan van Rooijen and Patrick Klijnsmit.

Finally, I would like to thank Logaine who ensured I paid attention to her and worldly things.
