Acknowledgement

I address my sincere thanks to the families of Karaba and Koho who welcomed us and participated in the study; the health staff of the Houndé district for its active collaboration; and the staff of Center Muraz for providing logistical and administrative support.

This study would not have been possible without the dedicated involvement of our collaborators in Burkina Faso: J-P. Ki and V. Koudougbo, sociologists; L. Toe and H. Lanou, physicians; E. Da, obstetrician-gynaecologist; G. Lougue and A. Hien, pharmacists; B. Negalo and O. Guebe, nurses; B. Hien, laboratory technician; S. Ouattara, administrative coordinator; B. Bicaba, secretary; C. Kouakou Yameogo and N. Diallo, data entry clerck; Michel Sanou, logistician.

I also wish to thank my colleagues from the Maternal Micronutrient Supplementation Study Group²¹ for insightful discussions during our meetings in Bangkok in 2004 and in Geneva in 2006.
